

January 14, 1985

again, when this becomes effective next session you will have an opportunity to make any adjustments you feel are necessary based on the Rules Committee discussions and regulations that they come out with. The Rules Committee itself will have a chance to make changes to the code at that point in time. So that is essentially how it will work. I think that not only the substantive provisions but the symbolism of this particular code is extremely important. It is extremely important to avoid all appearances of impropriety and many of the provisions of this code are directed not just towards impropriety but towards the appearances of impropriety. You have an opportunity today to create the very highest ethical standards for this body that exist anywhere in the nation. You can do that today. Let's go through a little bit and talk about the substantive provisions one by one. The first three are general in nature. They are taken from, as I mentioned before, the U.S. House of Representatives Code. "A Member of the legislature shall conduct himself or herself at all times in a manner which shall reflect creditably on the legislature." Item two, adhering to the spirit and the letter of the Rules of the Legislature. Item three, not receiving compensation in return for your vote. And then you get down to item four and I want to particularly address your attention to item four because it will change the way your social life is conducted for most of us at least in the Legislature. It says that, "A Member of the Legislature shall not accept gifts other than personal hospitality of an individual at his or her home, or other than the personal hospitality of a nonprofit organization when such hospitality is also extended to a substantial portion of the membership of the organization, shall not receive gifts from any person or organization having a direct interest in legislation before the Legislature." And any person who is classified as a lobbyist is a person who has a direct interest in matters before the Legislature. It then goes on to define what "gifts" means and ties that definition to the definition contained in the Nebraska Political Accountability and Disclosure Act. And then it goes on to state that if any member of the Legislature unknowingly accepts a gift, then it is the obligation of that member to return the gift, or if that is not possible, to reimburse the donor for the value of the gift. This amendment was designed to do basically this, to end the practice of members of the Legislature having their meals paid for by lobbyists. But I